

The margin rate of companies in France has withstood the rise in import prices well, due to their increased selling prices and wage moderation

Currently being translated . ●